Paige Wolf Media & Public Relations Newsletter

I'll keep it as short and sweet as possible since I know you have plenty more to do than read e-mails this time of year. Thanks for reading The Paige Turner. Have a wonderful holiday and a great new year.

Tania Isaac Dance Added to the nEW Festival

On Thursday, Jan. 25 at 9 p.m. and Friday, Jan. 26 at 7 p.m., Tania Isaac Dance will be performing Tania's solo work Supervoman as well as excerpts from her new company works Disposable and In The Name Of. Dance Magazine says, "Fusing choreography with personal documentary and social commentary, [Isaac's] stage picture is intelligent, voluptuous, witty, and political, all in the same breath."

The January nEW festival invigorates audiences with the presentation of original works of dance theater from the Philadelphia Dance community. Other featured artists include renowned French company Cie Herve-Gil, festival curator and longtime Philadelphia dance force Melanie Stewart Dance Theatre, and PLUCK, the recently returned to Philadelphia collaboration of Karl Schappell and Niall Rea, as well as DanceHouse performances by Megan Mazarick and Meghan Durham/Merge Dance, and the newly reformed SCRAP Performance Group. See why Philadelphia is becoming increasingly renowned for producing the "new" and emerging in dance theater.

Equilibrium Pilates Beginner's Workshop Starts Jan. 17

I figure if I'm going to regularly sample my clients' cuisine and wear their accessories then it wouldn't really be fair for me to promote something I haven't tried. So I have begun individual Pilates training with Brie Adina Neff at Equilibrium Pilates (see impossibly bendy girl in photo). I must say that while the workout is tough, she is an incredibly motivating and positive teacher, and I actually feel better and taller after only two weeks.

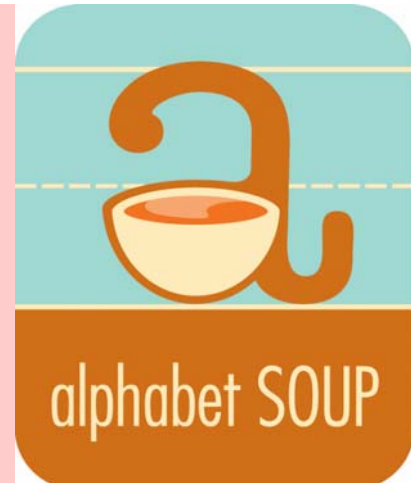

Equilibrium's next Beginner's Workshop starts Wed., Jan. 17 and runs for six consecutive weeks through Feb. 21 from 8-9 p.m. At only $150, this is the best and most affordable introduction to the Pilates Mat Workout in Philadelphia. Equilibrium covers each exercise thoroughly with special attention paid to form and safety so that after the course you can join any of their ongoing mat classes with confidence. Gift certificates are available.

"After a sophisticated meal at this whimsical new BYOB, the dinerati should be able to spell E-X-C-I-T- E-M-E-N-T." -Craig Laban, Philadelphia Inquirer. Enough said.
